

09/310025

ABSTRACT

A system facilitates the purchase of telecommunication services from a variety of sellers.

The system aggregates buyers for purchasing at least one telecommunication service as a group, generates a request for purchasing the telecommunication services, provides the request to the 5 sellers, and receives replies from the sellers in response to the request. The system then provides the replies to the group, receives a selection from the group in response to the replies, and notifies a seller of the selection.

23

1